

Summer 2022

Dear Incoming 7th Grade Student,

We look forward to you being enrolled in the upcoming school year at Calvary Academy middle school. All 7th grade students at Calvary Academy are responsible to read one book during the summer and complete the following assignments:

Required Summer Reading Book- Among the Hidden-Margaret Peterson Haddix

1. Read Among the Hidden, read and complete the attached “Character Traits” form. You will be writing a Character Analysis during the first full week of Language Arts class. A list of possible Character Traits is attached as well.
2. Complete the attached “Building Blocks of Plot” diagram to guide your reading and Diary Project.
3. Diary Project: Create a diary – telling the story, not from the main character’s perspective but from a minor character’s point of view. For example, for Among the Hidden you may select Mr. Garner, Mrs. Garner, Matthew, Mark, or Mr. Talbot or any other character other than Luke. Use the “Building Blocks of Plot” diagram to guide your writing. Your diary entries must include all the elements of the story such as exposition (characters, setting, conflict), rising action, climax, and falling action and resolution. This project needs to read like a diary so include a good character description of yourself and the other characters of the story so we can better understand the plot from your character’s point of view. You must have a minimum of 10 entries, approximately 7 to 10 sentences for each entry (double spaced, 12 font, Times New Roman).

Your project must be turned in by the first Friday of school.

Have a blessed summer.

In His Service,

Stephanie Cruz

Character Traits

Write the name of the main character of your story in the banner at the top. Then write three traits the character possesses in the middle three boxes. In the bottom boxes, write examples from the book of the character demonstrating each of the three traits.

Title ~~example~~ _____

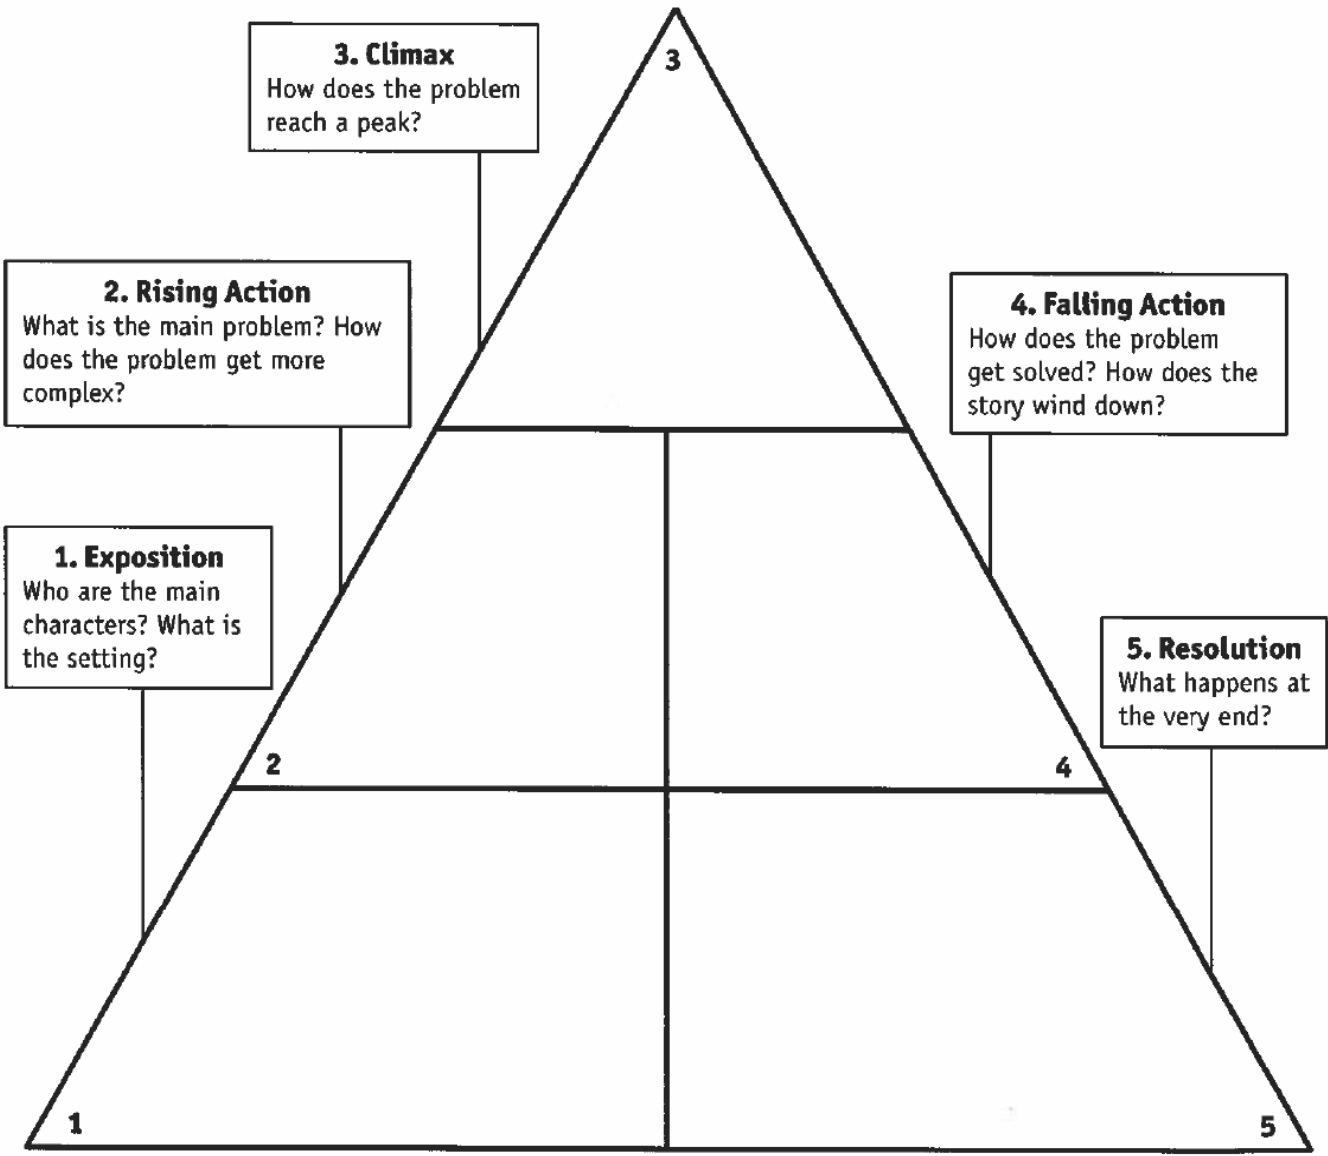

The diagram is a flowchart for character analysis. At the top is a banner with a ribbon-like border. Three lines descend from the bottom center of the banner to three circles, each containing the word "is". Below each "is" circle is a rectangular box for a trait. A vertical line connects each trait box to an oval containing the word "because". Below each "because" oval is a large, rounded rectangular box for an example. At the bottom of each example box is a line for the page number, labeled "Page #".

SKILL: Understanding Plot

Building Blocks of Plot

Every story is different, but most stories follow a similar pattern. In the exposition, we meet the characters and learn about the setting. Then the plot thickens—the main problem is introduced and things get more complicated during the rising action. The climax of the story happens before things wind down during the falling action. Then comes the resolution, when the problem is straightened out (or not) and the story ends. These different parts of a story are known as “plot points.”

Directions: Each block in the pyramid below is one part of the plot of the story you are reading. In each block, write the answer to the question. When you’re done, you’ll see the main plot points of the story.

Character Traits

ZZZZZ Boring: The nurse was nice to her patient.

Interesting: The tender and compassionate nurse never left her patient's side.
